

Mississippi's 30 state-licensed casinos reported revenue of $179.6 million in November, down about $5.8 million from the same month last year.

Most of the decline again came in the Mississippi River region, from Tunica to Natchez. The 19 river casinos reported combined revenue of $94 million, down $4.2 million compared to November 2009.

The Mississippi Department of Revenue does not include revenues from the state's Indian tribal casinos, which are not required to report their winnings to the public.

Rhodes professor named film expert

Liz Daggett, assistant professor of art at Rhodes College, has been selected as an Expert in Documentary Film by the U.S. Department of State to travel overseas in 2011 as part of the American Documentary Showcase.

In addition, a film that Daggett worked on called "Ranching and the Race to Save the Range" was among 20 films selected to travel with the 2011 showcase.

The State Department funds the program, which seeks to highlight the value of documentaries in fostering understanding, cooperation, dialogue and debate.

Daggett also serves as director of the Center for Outreach in the Development of the Arts at Rhodes.

Powered by WizardRSS | Work At Home Jobs

Source: http://news.google.com/news/url?sa=t&fd=R&usg=AFQjCNG_zbreijrRsSPU

Coffee Break: Mississippi casino revenue drops in November - Memphis Commercial Appeal

Written by Administrator

Thursday, 23 December 2010 00:04 -

7afZuzcYmWnzQA&url=http://www.commercialappeal.com/news/2010/dec/23/coffee-break-first-tenn-repays-us-taxpayers/