

Two patrons who left children unattended at the Parx Casino have been banned from the gaming hall, Pennsylvania regulators said Thursday.

Fajiao Sun of Philadelphia was arrested Feb. 14, 2010, for leaving his 10-year-old daughter at the self-park entrance of the Bensalem, Pa., casino while he played virtual blackjack, the Pennsylvania Gaming Control Board said.

Xin Li of Philadelphia was arrested the same day, also while playing virtual blackjack, leaving two sons, 5- and 6-years-old, at the self-park entrance.

In each case, the children were left unattended for 45 minutes.

Sun and Li were placed on the involuntary casino exclusion list, which prohibits them from entering or patronizing any casino in the state.

In all, 10 people have been banned from the state's 10 casinos, including two Philadelphia-area men who also left children in cars outside Parx .
