Las Vegas, Nev. (Vocus/PRWEB) January 13, 2011

The Stratosphere Casino, Hotel & Tower announces the more than $20 million dollar reimagining of the iconic Las Vegas property. As part of the sweeping changes, the property is also introducing its new general manager, Paul Hobson. Hobson has served as senior vice president and general manager of sister property, Aquarius Casino Resort in Laughlin, Nevada since December 2008.

At the centerpiece of the renovations is Stratosphere Select, the remodeling of 909 guestrooms, located on floors featuring upgraded elevator lobbies with marble floors, new carpeting and wall treatments. The rooms are beautifully redesigned with guest comfort in mind including king and queen beds dressed with 240-thread count sheets. Each room has a flat screen TV, and an elegantly updated bathroom with granite countertops, new tile and tub. The rooms' bold colors, textures and details are a perfect compliment to the spectacular views of downtown Las Vegas, The Strip and the surrounding Las Vegas Valley.

But the upgrades don't stop there. The hotel entrance has been overhauled to include valet parking directly off Las Vegas Boulevard and a sweeping indoor marble tile ramp that leads guests to a hip new VIP lounge, the hotel lobby, and the newly carpeted casino floor. Other changes on the casino floor include new modern colors and updated directional signs.

Dining has been reimagined, as well. Under the direction of Executive Chef Rick Giffen, the Buffet is sleek and interactive, with several live cooking stations in the works, and refreshed new surroundings. Roxy's Diner, a longtime guest favorite, has been expanded to include a new menu and patio seating. Now open around the clock, Roxy's singing and dining wait staff entertains during lunch and dinner. The award-winning www,StratosphereHotel.com/hotel/dining [Top of the World] restaurant features an extraordinary new menu. And stylish lounges like Level 107 Lounge and Air Bar, the highest bar in Vegas, offer happy hours with a view you can't get anywhere else.

While major renovations are complete, finishing touches on the property will continue throughout the year. The Stratosphere's transformation began in April 2010 with SkyJump Las Vegas, an addition that captured international attention.
