Police have three suspects in custody in a robbery spree that targeted dozens of victims who had been lucky at a nearby casino. Investigators say three people would watch for winners at Hollywood Casino in Lawrenceburg, Indiana and then follow the winners home and rob them at gunpoint.

35-year-old Kenyatta Erkins, 34-year-old Ugbe Ojile and 25-year-old Amy Hoover are accused of targeting 26 victims since February of this year.

Investigators say the trio looked for vulnerable victims like foreigners or older citizens.

Police set up an undercover sting operation using an officer who flashed a lot of cash.

When the three suspects showed up to rob the undercover officer they were arrested.
