A young man in North Vegas has succumbed to injuries sustained in what appears to be an attempted casino robbery.

Stefon Clark, 21, was arrested for robbing people in the bathroom of the Opera House Casino in North Vegas.

Unfortunately, one of the proposed robberies had ended in the shooting of one particular victim.

The gunshot wounds proved to be too much, and the victim, 30, succumbed to his wounds in the hospital to which he had been taken.

Clark was arrested and charged with murder with a deadly weapon and robbery with a deadly weapon.

A murder had also occurred two hours earlier in the same area, though authorities believe there is no connection between the two.

“If it were legal for law abiding citizens to carry weapons into the casinos, it may have been the criminal who lost his life, rather than the innocent,” stated observer Dan T. “Criminals don’t care about the law, so the ban doesn’t exactly effect them.”
