NEWTON CENTRE, Mass.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Casino City Press is proud to announce that it has partnered with Regulatory Management Counselors, P.C. (RMC Legal) to assist in developing the new "Vendor Licensing" section of its website: www.CasinoVendors.com .

"I am thrilled to be able to include the high-quality casino vendor regulation, licensing and compliance requirements information provided by Regulatory Management Counselors on the CasinoVendors.com website"

The new informational resource provides an extensive overview of supplier and vendor licensing requirements for casino gaming jurisdictions. Phase I, just launched today, focuses on the licensing requirements within the 12 largest commercial casino gaming markets in the United States along with a global directory of over 700 gaming regulatory agencies. The Phase I jurisdictional analysis includes: Nevada, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Mississippi, Iowa, Illinois, Colorado, Indiana, Louisiana, Missouri, and South Dakota. Phase II will provide an extensive supplier licensing overview of the North American casino gaming industry including Native American gaming. Phase III will provide a global casino gaming jurisdictional analysis.

"We are very excited about teaming up with Casino City Press and assisting with the development of the jurisdictional casino licensing section of the website," said David Waddell, Attorney and President of Regulatory Management Counselors. "The resource will be quite extensive and will provide those looking to do business in most any jurisdiction across the globe with a helpful overview and guide to licensing requirements. It is our goal to help enhance the continuing excellence of Casino City's CasinoVendors.com website."

CasinoVendors.com currently indexes over 13,000 gaming industry suppliers , vendors, and manufacturers, who list themselves free of charge on the site. The site assists vendors, distributors, and manufacturers of casino products and services and serves as a central hub for casino buyers and suppliers to access information. Visitors to the site will find detailed gaming vendor company information including executive and management contact names and product and service information along with the latest gaming vendor news and Tweets.
